Construction Manager (m/f/d)

(18003)

Are you ready for varied range of tasks?

- Responsible overall construction management
- Management of the multidisciplinary Construction Management Team
- Superordinate planning, controlling and management of the construction processes of the different disciplines (e.g. solid construction, steel construction, piping)
- Ensuring compliance with the required safety and quality standards
- Completion of all construction preparation tasks in the office

Then show us what makes you special

- Successfully completed engineering studies, preferably mechanical engineering, process engineering or civil engineering
- Several years of experience in construction as site manager or supervisor, preferably experience in commissioning
- Good knowledge in the oil and gas sector
- Willingness for national and international assignments
- Very good knowledge of German and English

With more than 50 years of experience as a general contractor for the oil & gas (upstream and downstream) and chemical industries, MMEC Mannesmann services cover the entire cycle from early project development, feasibility studies, including hydraulic and case studies, conceptual and basic design, front-end engineering design up to implementation of turn-key projects. We provide our services in respect of process plants for the oil, gas, refining, chemical and renewables industries. We combine technological know-how with the local requirements of your preferred project implementation scheme.
